DAILY MEDITATIONS

MONDAY

Please read Mark 5:21-43. What stood out to you in last weekend's sermon? How were encouraged to be at peace in the waiting times of life? Thank God today that He never leaves you. He never forgets you. Talk to God about the areas of life where you feel like you're waiting. Ask Him to help you and teach you as you study waiting this week.

TUESDAY

For the rest of this week we are going to read some passages on waiting and then answer a series of questions. Please read Psalm 27. What does this passage have to say about waiting? How is this encouraging to you? How is it challenging to you? How could you apply this to your life today? Thank God today for His love for you. Thank Him for the plans He has for you. Pray that you will wait for His light and you will rejoice in His salvation of you.

WEDNESDAY

Please read Psalm 37:6-8. What does this passage have to say about waiting? How is this encouraging to you? How is it challenging to you? How could you apply this to your life today? Thank God today for His timing and His pace. Talk to Him about the way(s) waiting is making you impatient. Ask Him for the strength to be still before Him and wait.

THURSDAY

Thursday: Please read Psalm 33:20-22. What does this passage have to say about waiting? How is this encouraging to you? How is it challenging to you? How could you apply this to your life today? Thank God today for the hope we have in Him. Pray that you will be able to wait in hope for His timing.

FRIDAY

Please read Psalm 130. What does this passage have to say about waiting? How is this encouraging to you? How is it challenging to you? How could you apply this to your life today? Thank God today for His word. Pray that God will bring to mind encouragement from the Bible as you wait for Him today.

SATURDAY
